PAGE
SECT. II. Purposes served by the Complication and Fortuities of Nature, 188
SECT. III.—On a General and Particular Providence, . . . 181
ILLUSTRATIVE NOTE (K).—Combe's Constitution of Man, . 187
SECT. IV.—Method of Interpreting the Divine Providence, . . 189
SHOT. V.—Practical Influence of the various Views which may be taken of Divine Providence—Atheism, Pantheism, Superstition, True Faith, 207
SECT. VI.—Method of answering Prayer, and farthering Spiritual Ends, 216

CHAPTER III.

RELATION OP THE PROVIDENCE OF GOD TO THE CHARACTER OP MAN.

SECT. I.—General Bemarks on the Eelation of the Physical to the Moral Providence of God, ... 227
SECT. II.—Aids to Virtue* and Restraints upon Vice, . . . 229
SECT. III.—Arrangements needful to the stability of the Social System, 281
SECT. IV.—State of Society when the Aids to Virtue and the Restraints upon Vice are withdrawn, ... 241
SECT. V.—Adaptation of this world to Man, considered m a Fallen Being, 219
SECT. VI.—Explanation of the Mysteries of Divine Providence, furnished by the Sinfulness of Man's Character, ... 257

BOOK THIRD.

PABTICULAK INQUIRY INTO THE PRINCIPLES OP THE HUMAN MIND THROUGH WHICH GOD GOVKKNS MANKIND.

CHAPTER I.

MAN'S ORIGINAL AND INDESTRUCTIBLE MORAL NATURE,

SECT. I.—The Will, or the Optative Faculty—Conditions of Responsibility, 263
SECT. II.—Freedom and Responsibility compatible with the Causal Connexion of God with his Works, ... 271
SECT. III.—Distinctions to be attended to in Ethical Inquiry, . . 28G
ILLUSTRATIVE NOTB (F).—Method of Inquiry in Kthical Science, 289
SECT. IV".—Inquiry into the Nature of Conscience, or the Mental Faculty or Feeling which recognises and reveals the Distinction between Right and Wrong, ... 201
SECT. V.—Qualities which must meet in Morally Eight Action on the part of MaDp». 307
SECT. VI.—Practical Rule to be followed in determining what is Good and Evil, * . . . . . ,

824
SECT. VII.—Tendency of Virtuous Action, ...
826
SECT. VIII.—General View of Man's Original Moral Constitution, as illustrative of the Character of God, ...
8JJO